

FALCONDIRECT

We Keep You Connected

www.FalconDirect.com

Navman for Law enforcement

So, how does Navman benefit law enforcement? There are five major benefits. The first is FUEL SAVINGS! Navman can help you administrate a disciplined program to reduce idling time. Turning off the ignition while parked can typically provide fuel savings of 10%. Assuming fuel cost at $3.50 and consumption at ten gallons per day equals $35 per day. A 10% savings would be $3.50 – a savings of $1,277.50 per car per year.

Until now, the problem has been the enforcement of an ignition off while parked policy. Navman gives you the administrative tool you need to enforce a fuel saving policy. Navman monitors idle time and provides a daily report. You will KNOW who is not complying!

Environmental responsibility, the second benefit is closely associated with fuel savings. When idling time is reduced, particle pollution is an associated benefit. Most of us don't think a lot about particle pollution – we should! We have prepared a very information one page report on the subject of particle pollution. This is a must read for anyone wanting the true facts on the effects of vehicle emissions. Check it out at www.info4u.us/enviornmental.pdf.

The third benefit is litigation avoidance. Knowing where your people are can eliminate frivolous lawsuits. With documented reports of all travel, speed, and stops, you can deal with false claims without going to court. On average, that saves you about $10,000 per event!

The fourth benefit is administrative control. Are your officers where they should be? Are they driving at excessive speed without cause? Are they stopping by the house when they should be on patrol? Any activities going on outside your jurisdiction? Navman can answer all these questions and more!

Lastly, Navman improves public relations. With written verification of all patrol activity, you can show citizens and merchants what your patrol personnel are doing. Navman does it all!

For more information on the Navman system, give us a call at 800.489.2611, visit our web site at www.navmansystems.com or email sales@falcondirect.com.